The Clara Thomas Archives & Special Collections of York University Libraries collects primary source material to support research and learning by the university’s faculty and students, and a community of international scholars.

New materials are acquired from a wide variety of sources, including antiquarian book dealers, researchers working in the field, and the general public.

While York University has always specialized in research collections relating to Canadian literature, politics, fine arts and social reform, generational change in faculty has opened new horizons in our acquisition activities.

Recent acquisitions pertain to a wide diversity of disciplines and topics, including: broadcast communications, environmental history, sexual diversity, social and constitutional reform, film and theatre production, and the multicultural experience.

In 2011, ASC began purchasing letters written by Victorian authors, poets, artists, activists, and other individuals to create a collection that could be used to support research and teaching by faculty associated with the Victorian Studies Network at York.

An item level inventory of this collection is available online to researchers. The letters have already been used by the English Department for a Victorian poetics course.

Additions will be made to this series as opportunity and funds permit.

Authors include Christina G. Rossetti, Ford Madox Brown, Mary Louisa Molesworth, Sir Edward Coley Burne-Jones and Kineton Parkes.

Sheldon Esbin was born in Toronto and has lived in the city for his whole life. He attended the University of Toronto and graduated from Osgoode Hall Law School in 1964. Called to the Bar of Ontario in 1966, Esbin practised law with real estate law firm Spencer Romberg for 26 years.

Informed by his background in business and an intimate knowledge of Toronto real estate and property development, Sheldon Esbin has been an avid collector of Toronto-related rare books, archival materials and ephemera since the 1980s, with a focus on early businesses and commercial products, property development, and tourism.

His collection, donated in 2012, provides a wide scope of documentation of industry and business of Toronto in the late 18\textsuperscript{th} and early 20\textsuperscript{th} centuries, local landmarks, tourist attractions and related infrastructure throughout the 20\textsuperscript{th} century, and the urban development of Toronto, both architectural and social, as it transitioned from its early industrial period to its present post-amalgamation configuration.

Sound & Moving Image Pilot Project

The holdings in the Archives & Special Collections include documents housed on fragile, disintegrating and obsolete media, particularly in the areas of sound recordings and video.

In an effort to establish a baseline for infrastructure to support the ongoing migration and preservation of unique records in these formats, archivists and librarians from York’s Archives and Special Collections, Sound and Moving Image Library and the Scott Library’s Bibliographic Services are collaborating on a pilot project running through the summer term of 2013.

Assisted by a Young Canada Works Grant (YCW) administered by the Canadian Council of Archives (CCA), this pilot project is selectively digitizing sound and video recordings from the Michael Posluns fonds (related to First Nations, Inuit and Métis cultural and political activism in the late twentieth century) and the AIDS Committee of Toronto Collection to be made available through a new online repository supported by the institutional repository framework Islandora.

A selection of digitized recordings can be streamed on campus at: http://digital.library.yorku.ca/

Air Farce Comedic Reference

As part of a much larger donation of the business records and creative elements from their long-running radio and television comedy series, The Royal Canadian Air Farce, the members of the comedy troop donated their comedic reference library.

Making up a little under 100 volumes, this reference collection includes many standard joke, humour and satirical works published from 1961 to the early 2000s.

The Portuguese Canadian History Project
Projeto de História Luso-Canadiana

Started in 2008, this non-profit, community outreach initiative is coordinated by Gilberto Fernandes, Susana Miranda, Raphael Costa and Emanuel Silva. Committed to locating historical records in the hands of private individuals and organizations in the Portuguese-Canadian community, the project shepherds donations into the care of the archives. Community associations, unions, and community press, along with politicians, journalists, researchers, and social workers have entrusted the PCHP | PHLC with their collections.
